The creative adult is the child who survived

Nowadays, for most children "school" is a place where they are forced to go. This image must be changed! School is where we made our first friends, where we started to build our future. There are some things that should be added in order to make the educational system better. Children should be taught that they are like birds and two birds never sing the same song, therefore they are unique. In the future, knowing half of the things that Wikipedia knows won't help them if they don't know themselves. There should be classes which give students the opportunity to find out which their tastes and fears are. Then, school must teach them how to pick a job where they do what they like and how to defeat their fears, so they'll become stronger. After that, there should exist classes where children learn to enjoy the little things, like smiles and sunsets and to make every day worth living, not just Friday. In conclusion, even if the things we can find in books are important, first of all school should fill our hearts with warmth and our brains with understanding and creativity.
